

Class of 2015: Trail-Head at Rogers Family Homestead

Partnering with the City of East Jordan and the Little Traverse Conservancy, this year's class took the lead in East Jordan by assessing the current needs of one of the city's biggest potential park accesses. "In an effort to draw visitors to the area and bring awareness to the land conservancy, we're partnering with Little Traverse Conservancy and the City of East Jordan to provide a safe place to park at an easily accessible trail-head within walking distance of downtown. The area will be outfitted with benches and signs that will define the use of the trail, and it will be lined with repurposed, natural boulders." -- Nick Pulver, Class of 2015.

The picturesque hiking trail, which was once only accessed by an entrance approximately 3 miles from East Jordan, is now easily accessible from downtown East Jordan and ready for visitors!
